

CONTENTS

REGULARS

FEATURES

Clockwise from below:
Twombly's Jug, Philip
Eglin; Pascal Anson with his Balancer chair; paper bowls by Studio Gutedort
with the Iraq Al-Amir

Women's Co-operative;
Verpa Scooter, Gustave
Foko Mulunga.
Front cover: *Large
Faceted Box*, Andrea
Walsh, 2012.

- 03 Editorial
Why this issue celebrates the art of play
- 05 Front
The new Woman's Hour Craft Prize; London Craft Week and Milan's Salone reviewed; plywood at the V&A; Philip Eglin's latest work; Grayson Perry at the Serpentine; Sebastian Cox meets Burberry
- 26 Design Doctor
Patricia van den Akker solves readers' issues. This month: managing a seasonal business
- 29 A-Z of craft - 'F'
Jane Norris explains why 'F' is for firing
- 30 Talent Spot
Studio Gutedort tells Grant Gibson about its paper-making project in Jordan
- 61 Reviews
Tanya Harrod confronts Eric Gill's dubious past; Chris Ofili at the National Gallery; Hugh Pearman on Ravilious & Co; craft's relationship with the Bauhaus unpicked; That Continuous Thing; Glenn Adamson dresses up for Rei Kawakubo at The Met
- 69 Crafts Guide
Comprehensive listing of the UK's galleries
- 77 Back
Wire toys from Burundi; Freed of London is the best of British; Liam Flynn remembered; artist Emma Hart on her inspirations; Rosy Greenlees; lots of important dates
- 92 Thinking Aloud
Tanya Harrod on how to make a contemporary table setting

- 32 Box office
Andrea Walsh has spent her career creating beautiful but enigmatic boxes from ceramic and glass. She opens up about her practice to Imogen Greenhalgh
- 38 Play makers
With the Crafts Council's major new exhibition States of Play about to open, Annie Warburton asks if we are living in the 'ludic century'
- 44 Balancing act
A sense of wit is a vital element in the work of artist and designer Pascal Anson. The self-confessed late developer talks to Elizabeth Choppin about his eclectic career
- 52 Seats of learning
In an extract from a new book celebrating the 40th anniversary of Parnham College, design historian Jeremy Myerson tells the tale of its foundation, while Sean Sutcliffe and Konstantin Grcic remember their student days

'It was like being in a monastery. You could not run this type of course in a large city'
NINA MOELLER ON PARNHAM, P.52